THOMAS UNRUFFLED LAUGHS AT RUMOR OF ASSASSINATION

Canadian Police Guarding British Minister Against Threatened Attempt on Life by Sinn Fein—Several Arrests Made at Hamilton and Toronto on Telegraphed Instructions

OTTAWA, Aug. 5 (CP).—Undismayed by rumors, first that he had been assassinated, and later that arrangements had been carried out by representatives of the Sinn Fein to bring about his death, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, left tonight on the special train carrying delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference to the Welland Canal. Mr. Thomas refused to comment on the reports and he carried out his programme for the afternoon and evening with the same nonchalance that marks all his activities.

The Secretary for the Dominions was attending a committee meeting this afternoon when his secretary, J. P. L. Thomas, M.P., received a communication stating that Mr. Thomas had been reported killed by a fanatic.

A HEARTY LAUGH

"I conveyed the news to Mr. Thomas as soon as he came out of the conference chamber," the secretary said tonight, "and he laughed it off with hearty laughter. It is no new experience for Mr. Thomas to hear news of his death by assassination, or that he was about to be killed."

"We heard first that Mr. Thomas had been assassinated by a Sinn Fein," he continued. "Then we heard later that he had been spirited off to a train at Hamilton and hurried away to safety under guard to a destination unknown."

NOTHING UNPLEASANT

"But there has been nothing since our visit to Canada that would give any strength to reports that an attempt was to be made on his life, not a threatening letter or anonymous communication of any kind. It is amazing how these rumors get started, and rather amusing."

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP).—Along the route of the Dominion Minister's journey to the ceremonial opening of the Welland Canal tomorrow, Canadian police today stood guard against a Sinn Fein of the most radical type, stated to have avowed intention of shooting Mr. Thomas.

McDonald, Canadian Pensioners' Association of the Great War; Colonel W. C. H. Wood, Army and Navy Veterans in Canada; Rev. John Kelman, Tuberculosis Veterans' section, Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League; Lieutenant-Colonel John Thompson, K.C., D.S.O., Board of Pension Commissioners; Colonel L. P. Sherwood, V.D., A.D.C., Pension Appeal Court; Brigadier-General H. F. McDonald, C.M.G., D.S.O., Pension Tribunal; Dr. Ross Millar, Department of Pensions and National Health; Lieutenant-Colonel C. B. Topp, D.S.O., M.C. chief Pensions Advocate, Veterans' Bureau.

REPORT AND SUGGEST

The committee is empowered "to carry out an investigation into the administration of the Pension Act, and to report thereon with such suggestions or recommendations as may be deemed advisable."

In making the announcement, Dr. McLaren stated Messrs. Myers and McDonald, Colonel Wood, Rev. John Kelman and Brigadier-General Ross had been selected for their respective organizations.

The report of the committee is to be submitted to Dr. McLaren by December 1 next.

Paraguay Would Submit Dispute to Arbitration

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 5 (AP).—Paraguay informed the United States and eighteen other neutral American nations tonight that she agreed to suspend hostilities with Bolivia on the basis of the positions held by the armed forces of the two nations in the Gran Chaco territory, June 1.

The Government is willing to submit the conflict to arbitration or any other friendly solution as soon as truce has been arranged.

WARNS CIVIL WAR LIKELY

Bitter Attack Is Launched Against De Valera—Labor Leader Joins Critics

DUBLIN, Aug. 5 (CP).—The Daily Express tonight approved President de Valera's emergency estimate of $8,000,000 to aid commerce and industry which has been dislocated by tariff barriers between Great Britain and the Free State.

After a spirited debate in which Opposition members declared the Free State is heading for revolution "accompanied by bloodshed and violence," the lower house divided 58 to 42 in favor of the Government proposal and adjourned until October 19.

MAKES BITTER SPEECH

Hon. J. Fitzgerald-Kennedy, formerly Minister for Justice in the regime of Hon. William T. Cosgrave, made a bitter attack on the Government's policy, predicting civil war as its inevitable result. "The country is heading fast for revolution accompanied by bloodshed and violence," he declared.

The Free State is being side-tracked at Ottawa while other Dominions are trying their utmost to capture the British market for their meat, bacon and butter, said Hon. Patrick McGilgan, another member of the late Government.

JOINS IN ATTACK

The Labor member in the Daily William Norton, also rose to join in the attack on the Government, charging Mr. de Valera with lack of a decisive policy in dealing with the emergency. Hitherto Labor members have co-operated in keeping Mr. de Valera's party, the Fianna Fail, in power.

Annual Picnic Will Be Held at Willows

Optimism is the byword of the executive of the Britannia branch of the Canadian Legion, and according to report it has just ground for the election in the fact that everything has been done that is possible to make today's picnic at the Willows Beach the most successful in years.

Special attention has been paid to the amusement of children, with free ice cream and candy guaranteed.

CONSIDER PRICE BOTTOM REACHED

Lumbermen Anticipate Increased Buying as Market for Their Product Firms

SEATTLE, Aug. 5 (AP).—The West Coast Lumbermen's Association, in its weekly review, said today that "many lumbermen believe the price bottom has been finally reached and anticipate that market firmness will result in increased lumber buying."

The association revealed that "continued lower production and unsatisfactory values have forced higher asking prices by mills during the past week. This, it is believed, has resulted in some forward buying and accounts for the gain shown in volume this week in the domestic water markets."

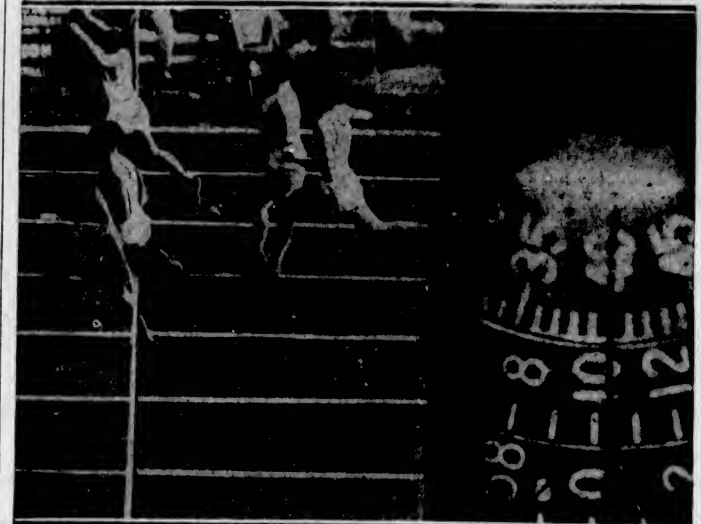

New business reported by 216 domestic mills was 41.5 per cent over production, and shipments were 32.4 per cent over production.

Two-Eye Camera Settles All Arguments

THIS picture, taken by the "two-eye" camera, settled all arguments as to who won the 100-metre final at the Olympic meet, Tuesday. Eddie Tolan, declared the winner, is shown at the far side of the track, while Ralph Metcalfe, in the foreground, was given second place. According to official rules, the tape is not accepted as the finish. The torso of the athlete's body must cross the white line on the ground before he is adjudged the winner. By close examination, Tolan's torso is shown across the line first. When this picture was taken the time for the race, as shown by the clock on camera (right) was 10.40 seconds. The judges announced the time, however, as 10.3 seconds, according to their stop watches.

Carr Adds Third Sprint Triumph For His Country

Gives United States Unbroken String by Spectacular Victory in 400 Metres—Alex Wilson Beats Two Olympic Marks Without Winning Championship—Finn Wins 5,000 Metres

OLYMPIC STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5 (CP).—Bill Carr, a black-haired youth from the University of Pennsylvania, ran the fastest 400 metres in track history this afternoon to make it unanimous that the United States is the leading sprint market of the world. Carr climaxed an American string of sprint triumphs at the tenth modern Olympic games and a run of record-shattering performances with a spectacular victory over the 400-metre route in 46.1-5 seconds, four-fifths of a second faster than the world record and one and one-fifth seconds under the former Olympic record.

A wild-eyed crowd of 70,000, here to cheer for big Ben Eastman, California's famous towhead, sent up a mighty shout as Carr pulled into the lead at the head of the stretch and thundered to victory fully four feet ahead of Eastman and three yards in advance of Alex Wilson, Montreal's great runner.

A MATCHLESS SPRINT They couldn't beat Carr over the last 200 metres when the long-striding Easterner bore down with a matchless sprint.

Eastman dropped back steadily and only Wilson was able to gain on the flying leader. The Canadian came from far back in the field to snatch third place from exhausted Billy Walters, of South Africa.

James Gordon, third United States entrant in the race, was fifth, and George Golding, of Australia, sixth and last.

Gold Fever Now At Its Height at Great Bear Lake

Rush to Conjur Bay and Camell River On in Earnest—Echo Bay Discoveries of Dazzling Richness—Staking Miles Deep

By FREDERICK B. WATT (Copyright, 1932, by The Edmonton Journal)

ECHO BAY, N.W.T., Aug. 3.—Gold! The very word is potential gunpowder in any mining camp. Add to it a detonator in the form of yellow flakes in the black "tail" of a goldpan, and you have an explosion. The Bear Lake field is shaking to such a detonation at the present time. The rush to Conjur Bay and the Camell River is on.

As reported on and off since last March, some of the shrewdest prospectors in the field have been haunting the region thirty-five miles south of here with a suspicious tenacity of purpose.

NO MORE CONJECTURE Everything was a matter of conjecture, however, until Jack Berthick quietly admitted recently that he had found a strip of ground on which nature had laid the Midas touch.

The came almost simultaneously with the revelation that new traces of gold had been found at two points in the immediate Echo Bay area.

MEAGRE INFORMATION That the Echo Bay finds have failed to excite the excitement of that on the Camell is not difficult to understand. In their case information has been chary, the discoveries being made on ground held by big companies. Outwardly,

CANADA PRESSES FOR BRITISH EMBARGO ON SOVIET LUMBER

Delegates State Imperial Parley Will Be Success
Exclusion of Russian Product Held Essential if Dominion to Receive Full Benefit of Preference—Desperate Battle Is On Behind Scenes—Agitation Part of Communist Campaign

Stevens and Tolmie Win High Praise for Efforts

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—Behind the scenes here at Ottawa there is being waged a desperate war. It is a fight between Canada and Russia for the lumber market of the United Kingdom. It is a desperate struggle that has been going on for several years and is now approaching a definite stage. Success for Canada will permit thousands of idle men to return to employment.

The stakes are high. The fight is very real and earnest. The decision will be made in a few days. That decision is the most important one that will be made in connection with any of the varied commodities of trade between United Kingdom and Canada. For Russia has pinned her faith on controlling British markets on timber.

SOVIET AGENTS ACTIVE Since the opening day of the conference there has been a determined endeavor made to prevent a British embargo on Soviet lumber. The Ottawa Journal today charges that Soviet agents are present as quid in an endeavor to block intra-Empire trade. Such has been common talk for some days, and one known trade negotiator for Russia, in Canada, has been prominent here since the parley opened.

Nor are Soviet endeavors confined to direct agents. They rely on the persuasive powers of several leaders of the British timber delegation from London, who have been battling for several weeks to prevent an embargo on Russian timber.

PLAN NOT ACCEPTABLE

After long-drawn-out discussions with Canadian lumbermen, they have agreed to withdraw opposition to a small duty, but suggest that control of the volume of Russian timber imported into Britain be left in their hands. This is not satisfactory to Canadians.

The fight started last year when British brokers signed a contract with Russia for handling of Soviet timber. Premier Tolmie and Premier Tauschereau protested to Ottawa, which made futile representations to London against the unfair discrimination of labor products. This was followed by active Communist agitation in the following action.

Government against the British activities were transferred to British Columbia. It was determined to concentrate destructive propaganda Continued on Page 2, Column 5

GRAND JURIES PASS IN B.C.

Abolition Act Proclaimed Yesterday, Ending Life of Institution

Abolition of grand juries in British Columbia became a legal fact yesterday, consequent on a proclamation by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, bringing an amending law passed at the last session of the Legislature into effect, as from August 4.

This means that criminal cases courts throughout the province this Fall will be summoned without the usual attendance of grand jurors. Most of the assizes commencing in the month of October, that in Victoria included.

The effect of the change, it is expected, may speed up the work of the courts, or that at least was one of the reasons leading to abolition of the panels which formerly sat to decide "no bill" or "true bill" on each case to go before the courts.

Also imply the omission of semi-annual presentations, touching on jail, public buildings and court-houses. Victoria, for one, will miss the annual recommendation that it requires a new courthouse, a standing resolution, endorsed by nearly all grand juries here for a good many years.

WOULD ORGANIZE FOR PROTECTION

BERLIN, Aug. 5 (AP).—The formation of a republican self-defence organization was proposed by leaders of the Socialist Party tonight as a result of the outburst of political violence which has kept Germany in turmoil for the last six weeks.

Proponents of the organization charged that the Government was equally responsible with Adolf Hitler's National Socialist wave of terrorism.

Meanwhile, Nazi headquarters in Munich denied reports that Hitler had made a secret journey to Berlin.

PRINCE TO VISIT FLEET AT CORFU

LONDON, Aug. 5 (CP).—The Prince of Wales will make the first official visit to the fleet which he has ever paid when he joins the Mediterranean Fleet, under the command of Admiral Sir Ernle Chatfield, at Corfu on August 13.

He will probably fly to Corfu, and will sail with the fleet to Malta three days later.

As a vice-admiral and a personal aide-de-camp to the King, the prince will inspect many of the sixty ships of the fleet, which comprise the Mediterranean Fleet, including the flagship, the mighty 31,000-ton battleship Queen Elizabeth.

It is expected that the Prince will play on the Queen Elizabeth, of 37,185 tons, which is the largest ship in the fleet, physical training officer.

More than 400 square feet of display space has been sold out and applications for more display space are being turned down. It was announced yesterday by Ald. H. O. Litchfield, member of the British Columbia Agricultural Association executive.

More than 60,000 square feet of display space has been sold in the exhibition building for more display space are being turned down. It was announced yesterday by Ald. H. O. Litchfield, member of the British Columbia Agricultural Association executive.

ELDERLY RECLUSE SHOT BY UNKNOWN

Woman Apparently Murdered While Sitting Alone in Dining-Room of Home

NATCHEZ, Miss., Aug. 5.—The body of Miss Jane Merrill, sixty, was found in a thick coat of blood, lying on the floor of her dining room today after an all-night search by a sheriff's posse and bloodhounds.

The body bore two bullet wounds in the neck and one in the side. A coroner's inquest brought in a verdict of death at the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Miss Merrill apparently had been shot while sitting in the dining-room of her old plantation home. The room was riddled with bullets and a trail of blood led out onto a balcony and to a spot about 200 yards from the house.

Miss Merrill's father, the late Ayres Merrill, was once United States Ambassador to Belgium.

Access to the house had been closed for many years, was thought to be wealthy.

BENGAL HAS SHOT AT EDITOR

Attack Made on Sir Alfred Watson—Assault Takes Poison and Dies

CALCUTTA, India, Aug. 5 (AP).—Sir Alfred Watson, noted editor of The Statesman, was shot at today, but not injured, by a young Bengalee.

The assailant was seized immediately by a constable and a door-keeper, but he swallowed a dose of poison immediately and died a few minutes afterwards on the way to hospital.

Sir Alfred, who recently was knighted in recognition of his services as editor of The Statesman, had just arrived at his office when the attack occurred.

The terrorists in Bengal added another victim to their list with the death tonight at Dacca of Edwin Ellison, assistant superintendent of police at Comilla, Bengal, who was shot in the back on July 29 while he was bicycling in Comilla. One of his assailants was subsequently arrested.

CARR ADDS THIRD SPRINT TRIUMPH FOR HIS COUNTRY

BETTERED THE RECORD

Carr's win for United States bettered the record Canada set at Amsterdam, when Percy Williams captured the 100 and 200-metre titles, and Bell was second in the 400.

Little Eddie Toian, of Michigan, had paved the way for the sprint sweep with his record-breaking wins over the shorter distances.

Wilson duplicated the feat of Phil Edwards, of Hamilton, in breaking Olympic records without winning a championship. Official timers caught the Montreal blondest in 47 1/5 seconds today. When he was beaten by a foot in the 800-metre final by Tom Hampton, of England, Alex was second in the Olympic record. Edwards has broken both 800 and 1,500-metre marks, yet third place in each race was the best he could get.

Rains in Alberta End Fire Menace

CALGARY, Aug. 5 (CP).—Rains today lessened the forest fire menace in the Moose Mountain area of Alberta, where large stands of spruce trees in the forestry reserve have been destroyed since the conflagration started Sunday.

Thunder and rain tonight from the area, which is about forty miles west of Calgary in the foothills, has put the fire out for the time being. The danger will be eliminated by tomorrow night.

CANADA PASSES FOR BRITISH EMBARGO ON SOVIET LUMBER

RUSSIAN OBJECTIVE

The purpose of this activity is purported to seek to demoralize these two industries as competing factors with two of the main exports of Russia to England. So far, Russia has been successful. Canadian timber, and particularly that from the Pacific Coast, which is of superior tensile strength to that of Russia, has been practically shut out of Great Britain. British brokers are defending Soviet products, and are fighting an official embargo. Now comes the supreme test. Will Russia or Canada win?

HOPES FOR PREFERENCE

NANKING, China, Aug. 5 (AP).—Japanese reports that General Ma Chan-Shan, Chinese military chief in Manchuria, had been killed tonight of Hailan late last night, tonight were branded as "Japanese propaganda" by official circles here today.

Government officials said they had received a telegram from General Ma, who reported that he was directing troops against the Manchukuo Government in an area north of Harbin.

HAS FINE LIST OF SUCCESSES

Oak Bay Students Pass Matriculation Tests With Flying Colors

Oak Bay is proud of the success of its pupils who wrote in the June matriculation tests, Charles Macdonald, chairman of the board, commented yesterday. Of nineteen children who wrote for matriculation standing in Grade XI, all passed, or 100 per cent; twenty-four out of twenty-six who wrote the full matriculation tests in Grade XII, passed, or 92.3 per cent, while twenty-six out of twenty-nine "completing" their grades passed, or 89.6 per cent.

A total of 313 papers were written by all entrants from the Oak Bay High School, only eight papers failing, a record of 97.4 per cent successful papers, the chairman continued. Nineteen students in Grade XI, who wrote physics or chemistry, or both, for matriculation standing, all passed. Twelve of these students passed in physics, one in chemistry and six in both subjects.

The full summary shows that of twenty-nine writing the matriculation tests, twenty-six students passed full matriculation papers; one passed in five subjects to complete, and two others passed in four subjects to complete, a total of twenty-nine. Mr. Macdonald said the results were gratifying to the board, showing excellent work on the part of teachers and students concerned.

After a search of sixty years, F. Lyon Wise, hero of the Maori war, has just been found at the Returned Soldiers' Institute in Perth, Australia, and presented a medal awarded soon after the war, the presentation being made by the Acting Lord Mayor.

Stanley Baldwin and (right) Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, and other delegates now attending the Imperial Conference at Ottawa.

By JAMES A. COWAN

Central Press Canadian Correspondent

PORT COLBOURNE, Ont., Aug. 5.—A master link in the Great Lakes' chain, Canada's man-made and biggest ditch, the new Welland Canal, which will henceforth make the twenty-five-mile stretch from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario navigable for ships of liner proportions, will be officially opened on Saturday, August 6, with all pomp and ceremony befitting the successful completion of an engineering job of herculean size which took approximately a generation to do and cost over one hundred and twenty-two million dollars.

If Niagara Falls is one of the grade A scenic wonders of the globe, then this achievement takes equivalent rank among mechanical marvels. It was to circumvent, in machine-age style, the barrier placed in the way of navigation by the celebrated cataract and honey-mooners' mecca, that the canal was built. Briefly, what the engineers had to do was to enable 600-foot ships to walk up and down the Niagara escarpment.

The new Welland Canal has, for this marine promenade, seven gigantic steps on which the total lift is about 326.5 feet compared to Panama's eighty-five feet. These seven locks are supplemented by an eighth lock on the Lake Erie end. The single lift is 46.5 feet, and the longest lock, which is 1,360 feet, is also the world's longest.

LARGEST CARGO OF WHEAT

Very fittingly, the ceremony planned to signalize the official opening of the canal's full facilities is to send the largest freshwater vessel in existence through the new waterway with the biggest cargo of wheat ever moved in a single ship. At the height of the crop movement, this Great Lakes system, from head to salt water streams with millions upon millions of bushels of grain.

Pride of Canadian shipbuilders, longer than many a liner, holder of major lake and world freight records, is the giant 633-foot grain-carrier, the St. Lawrence. Gleaming like a limousine, polished like a piano, with her ensign, her burgee, house-jack and yards of signal flags from stern to stern, whipping in the breeze, the flagship of freighters is steaming down from the lake head to reach the canal, with 575,000 bushels of wheat in her holds. The grain streamed out of the towering concrete cliffs of transfer elevators at Port William like so many torrents of cereal. So much wheat never went into any one ship since the world began. It is the year's output of more than 41,800 acres of prairie land.

When the bow of the St. Lawrence noses into Lake Ontario for the first time, she will not be the biggest ship which has ever sailed these lower lake waters, but her arrival will signalize the fact that the cruising radius of the American and Canadian fleets of great upper lakes' freighters, hitherto hemmed in above Niagara, has been lengthened to more than a thousand miles, and that the main-moats of Superior, greatest of lakes, can now steam within a few hours' reach of an ocean port.

On her bridge as she makes her record-breaking voyage is a veteran master, who was serving on sailing vessels in the '90s, who has been captain of mighty lake freighters since 1908, and who has been in charge of the Lemoine since she came from the shipyard at Midland, Ont., a few seasons ago. He is Captain Charles Edward Robinson, of Goderich, from the blue-water country around Huron and Georgian Bay, which is famed in freshwater ports as the mother of a veritable race of great mariners whose names pop up all through the history of shipping on the inland seas.

DISTINGUISHED GATHERING

At Lock 7, upper twin of the two locks just below Port Colborne, a highly distinguished gathering will greet the ship. On the chief point of vantage along the canal, His Excellency the Governor-General, Earl Bessborough, and the viceregal party; Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin and the delegates to the Imperial Conference, representatives of the governments of one-fourth of the world's surface; Premier R. B. Bennett, of the Dominion, and an array of cabinet ministers and Canadian notables, will receive the Lemoine as she slips into the lock. There will be a large representation from the Department of Railways and Canals, the Federal department which supervised the building of the waterway, headed by the minister, Hon. R. J. Macdonald, and including A. Dubuc, chief engineer, and Alexander J. Grant, engineer in charge of the canal.

The oratory, with the aid of loud speakers, will be audible for a considerable distance, and as many as 100,000 people can view the spectacle. The Lemoine will break the ribbon stretched in front of her bow and steam into Lock 6, and the new Welland Canal will be formally and officially in complete operation. As the ship progresses methodically downhill to new waters, she can be watched for miles.

LOCKS 80 FEET WIDE

It takes eight minutes to fill one of the locks with the 19,000,000 gallons of water required, which is enough to supply a city the size of Vancouver for twenty-four hours. Each lock, with a usable length of 820 feet, is eighty feet wide and provides thirty feet of water on the sills. In a lock, the Lemoine, with her seventy-foot beam and her enormous cargo, can be lowered at the rate of 5.5 feet a minute. Each of the two steel gates at each lock's lower end is eighty-two feet, forty-eight feet wide, six feet thick, weighs 495 tons and contains 43,363 rivets. The estimated connected motor load for operating the canal and the government elevator at Port Colborne is 15,300 horsepower.

The importance of the new traffic lane for waterborne freight may be judged by the fact that the Great Lakes will take second place to no salt water route and admit no high seas claim to the title of "world's most traveled waterway." In 1928, Suez, in twelve months, handled 36,000,000 tons of freight. In the eight-month season on the Great Lakes, 1928, ships carrying 86,993,000 tons passed through the American and Canadian canals at Sault Ste. Marie, a total which was almost 18,000,000 tons greater than the twelve-month figures for Suez and Panama combined. It has been estimated that nearly ninety per cent of this traffic had been barred from Lake Ontario by the inability of the previous Welland Canal to accommodate the huge freshwater carriers which piled the upper routes. Now the route is open to the biggest carriers from the freight fleets of two countries.

CREDIT EXPERT TO SPEAK HERE

Frank Caldwell, of St. Louis, Will Address Chamber of Commerce Friday

FRANK T. CALDWELL

Frank Caldwell, of St. Louis, Missouri, representing the National Retail Credit Association, is going to address the members of the Chamber of Commerce on Friday next at a luncheon meeting held at 12:15. This meeting of the chamber is a regular quarterly gathering of the organization to which all members are invited.

The subject of the address will be "Present Retail Credit Problems and Latest Methods of Credit Granting."

It is desired that there shall be as large an attendance as possible, as the National Retail Credit Association is so far as it embraces the leading credit grantors of Canada, England, Australia, South Africa, United States, France, Holland and Hawaii.

Mr. Caldwell has worked his way up, through ability and experience, to become one of the leading credit granting authorities of Canada and the United States, and is now connected with the National Retail Credit Association. He is an authority on his subject, and has a message of vital importance to all credit grantors, both business and professional men.

There is no more vital question in the well-being of local merchants and professional men than the item of credit granting, and Mr. Caldwell's message will be of timely interest. All local business and professional men are invited.

The National Retail Credit Association, of which Mr. Caldwell is the representative, consists of over twelve hundred credit bureaus in the United States and Canada, and of over two hundred thousand merchants.

WILL BE VALUABLE

Harry B. Dawson, of the local credit bureau, the Retail Merchants'

Credit, Limited, said yesterday:

"The appearance of Mr. Caldwell in Victoria may be considered a great favor, and all local credit grantors certainly have a treat in store which they should make every effort to accept. Mr. Caldwell is one of the outstanding authorities on retail credit granting today. There is no credit man in the world who understands. His suggestions will come free, but I believe they will be worth many dollars."

At this meeting there will be a public presentation by Mayor Leeming of a medal awarded by the Royal Canadian Humane Association to William Francis of the cableship Restorer, for heroic action in saving the life of a young boy from drowning.

Those who will be attending are being requested to make their reservations by telephoning the office of the chamber.

CLAIM TO HAVE NEW THEORIES

McGill Scientists Expect to Publish Startling Results From Research

MONTREAL, Aug. 5.—New knowledge of the universe, slated to be of tremendous importance in the scientific world, has been gained by Professor J. S. Foster and Dr. A. Albert Douglas, McGill scientists, who returned to the university on Thursday following a month's research work conducted at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria.

Professor Foster declined to claim full success for their achievement until he and Dr. Douglas have had time to restate their findings. He said, however, the results of their work would quite likely create an upset of opinion among European scientists.

The task that the two McGill scientists set themselves was to examine the electrical fields of stars. Professor Foster stated it would require another week's study of the spectrographs which were taken during their observations before they would be willing to detail their findings.

The two scientists, accompanied by Mr. Foster's wife, traveled 9,500 miles by automobile in twenty-nine days to conduct their observations. Only one day was spent at the latter place.

FINDS NEW USE FOR LOGANBERRY

N. H. Lamont is Perfecting Plans for Manufacturing Concentrates for Market

What promises to be a new industry for Saanich and a further outlet for the product of the loganberry grower has recently been started. The new industry is in the nature of a soft drink and is based on this fruit. N. H. Lamont, the original founder of the loganberry wine industry, has for a considerable period been working on a project which has succeeded in producing from the loganberry a concentrate that can be used by the soft drink trade—soda fountains and such like in the manufacture of the beverage.

Mr. Lamont has given much study and time to the technical side of the business and in conjunction with William Newton, of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Sidney, and F. E. Atkinson, at the Okanagan Farm at Summerland, now feels that a product has been produced worthy of the most critical and one that will find favor with the consuming public.

It is proposed in a short time to form a company which will undertake the manufacture and sale of the product. Early this Spring a shipment of five tons of loganberries, taken from cold storage, was sent to the Summerland plant and turned into concentrate, and judging from the sales already made in Victoria and vicinity, prospects of a large business developing are extremely promising. There is no doubt, stated Mr. Lamont, in an interview yesterday, that in concentrated form this product can be sold from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and should be the means of displacing many of the concentrates made from fruits foreign to this country that are now imported in such large quantities and sold here.

What Today Means

"LEO" If August 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 1 p.m. to 2:35 p.m., and from 8:15 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The sun will only shine at intervals on August 6, and it will be a day of varying moods. Events more aggravating than harmful will cast their shadows and "hit on the raw." Social affairs are not much in evidence, and will be lacking spontaneous enjoyment. It will be a difficult time to study things out, and unwinding of problems should be left for another day. The child born on this August 6 will have a gay, devil-may-care, irresponsible nature, full of life and laughter. It may become the so-called black sheep of the family, but it would be difficult to find a yell as casual but never dishonouring. It will be never be a tattler. Friends of the wrong sort may be

HIGH SCHOOL EXAMINATION RESULTS

Certain questions were recently raised in these columns concerning the High School examination results, and some interesting letters have been received by The Colonist which indicate that there has been considerable discussion on the subject. In these communications a good deal of emphasis is laid on the fact that some High School subjects of study are optional, whereas others are compulsory, and it is said that this circumstance is bound to be reflected in the figures and percentages by which the examiners evaluate the work of the students. The line of argument taken by some of our correspondents is, briefly, as follows: If a subject is optional those who elect to take the subject have a special aptitude for it, and this aptitude accounts for the high average mark obtained in Latin.

This argument would be more convincing if the average mark for French in the recent examination had been a little higher, but the record shows that the average mark obtained in the required branches of English literature, composition and grammar is the same as the average mark for the optional subject of French. Moreover, it would be extremely difficult to prove that the boy who chooses Latin possesses any special aptitude therefor. There are professions which make it compulsory for those who enter their ranks to know something of Latin. A youth who dislikes Latin, and has no special aptitude for it, will take Latin in High School in such a case. Further, when a boy informs his teacher in High School that he intends to take a course in Latin, this frequently represents, not the boy's own choice, but the decision of his parents. Firmly believing in the value of Latin in its informative and disciplinary aspects, his elders properly take matters into their own hands.

One correspondent, speaking of the relative excellence of the teaching of Latin and mathematics, says that an examiner in the latter may keep strictly within the bounds of the syllabus and yet set a paper stiff enough to floor the best student, whereas Latin does not offer such a field to the examiner. In this day and generation, however, it is to be presumed that examiners have better sense than to do this. An examiner who is so ill acquainted with juvenile capacity as to set such a paper is unfit for his task, and one who deliberately undertakes to "floor" the candidates ought not to be employed in that capacity. The purpose of an examination is to find out what the candidates know rather than what they do not know.

It may be true, as one of our correspondents confidently asserts, that expertise in Latin is a sure indication of high scholastic ability in general, but this a matter upon which there is much controversy. A similar claim has long been made for mathematics, and there are those who are of opinion that other branches of school study, when properly organized for teaching purposes, will develop an equally high degree of scholastic ability. The whole matter of examinations is of far more importance in these days when the efforts of educators are especially directed to the task of selecting from the mass of students those who by native capacity and hard work can profit by further schooling as the public can afford to supply.

IN THEORY AND IN PRACTICE

The paradox of the effect of Russian propaganda throughout the earth is that it is creating ideas and conceptions the antithesis of those which are enforced in the Soviet realm. Communism outside Russia believes in laziness and agitation, in short hours and the receipt of something for nothing, with the state the universal provider. In Russia the official formula is that he who works more shall eat more, buy more, enjoy more. That is a doctrine which could never appeal to the Communist agitators in other lands. Their belief is that he who works hard and makes a success of his life is a parasite on the proletarian body politic.

The fact is that Communistic propaganda has so warped the conception of life's values that its most active protagonists seem to have lost the desire, the will and the ability to work and to give their quid pro quo for what life has to offer. The very contrary conception of what Communism means is being enforced by the power of slavery in Russia, and this perhaps explains why none of the lands are willing to go to Russia to take their chance in the paradise of their political conceptions.

SOCIAL HABITS AND TUBERCULOSIS

It is no new theory that the social habits of young women of the present day are an encouragement to the development of tuberculosis. There has been an increase of the disease in recent years, and experts on the subject put it down to new social habits that have been contracted. It appears that the increase in the death rates from pulmonary tuberculosis among young women in Britain, at ages 15-20 and 20-25, is practically limited to the unmarried. That would seem to indicate that marriage is a protective factor. The increase was first noticed in 1901 and has become marked ever since. That has been the period during which woman, more than ever before, has won her emancipation. The emancipation brought about a "profound change" in women's social habits following their entry into the competitive wage-earning life.

Dr. N. D. Bardwell, the principal Assistant Medical Officer of the London County Council Health Department, has been telling the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis about some unfavorable features of the everyday life of the modern young woman. She is subjected, he says, to varying degrees of fatigue consequent upon the nature of her employment. She lacks the requisite rest because of the belief that she needs such recreation as is found in moving pictures and dancing after a long day's work. When working she neglects colds, and has unsatisfactory meals. Statistics show that clerks, shorthand-typists, cashiers and shop assistants are prone to break down with pulmonary tuberculosis. In effect, Dr. Bardwell attributes the increased incidence of pulmonary tuberculosis to the strain and stress of competitive wage-earning and the associated changes in social life which women now face as compared with a quarter of a century ago. The changes have some features favorable to better health, such as more reasonable clothing and an increased cost of the open air. If it were not for these favorable factors the death rate would be heavier than it is.

There is admission that it will be difficult to promote conditions to protect the health and lives of young women. It may be doubted if the unfavorable factors can be eliminated, "as the rules are identical to the wide interest of life enjoyed by young people today which they will not give up at any price." In effect they are not willing to surrender the measure of independence they have won, even at the price of better health and greater expectation of life.

"LEG-PULLING" POLICY

In some respects Germany is "pulling the world's leg" by her financial policies. In other words, she is obtaining sympathy and consideration treatment under somewhat false pretences. An instance of this was brought to light by Mr. Winston Churchill in the House of Commons. He pointed out that under the Peace Treaty Britain and the United States took three great liners from Germany and these were surrendered at a valuation. Immediately, however, Germany borrowed money to build three very much better ones. Then, says Mr. Churchill, the Germans "captured the Blue Riband of the Atlantic, and they have it still. Now, the loans with which the Germans built these ships are subject to a moratorium, while we (the British) are unable to go on with our new Cunard because of our financial crisis. That is typical of what I mean when I say that Germany has not nearly so much reason to complain as some people suppose."

Chicago is opposed to the St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty because it imposes limitation of water diversion from the Great Lakes for the Chicago drainage canal. Up to date Chicago has followed its own bent in the matter of water diversion, despite court warnings and efforts to reach a modus vivendi. It will probably go on doing the same despite the new treaty. Chicago considers it is a law unto itself in this regard.

The best definition of jazz yet given is by Mr. S. L. Rothafel who says it is a part of modern psychology, or, in other words, the folklore derived from a machine age.

STRANGE WAYS

These are strange roads we travel, O my feet! Frodden with blood and dark with lonely woe— We to whom beauty's gracious paths were sweet— Yet how else shall we go?

These are strange tunes we fashion, O my song! Frustrate and bitter, sharp with fury's sting— We who have courted love with long— Yet how else can we sing!

These are strange days for lovers, O my heart! Strident with battle, aching with despair— We of whose fire tenderness was part— Yet how else may we fare?

—Miriam Allen de Ford in "The Lyric."

WAKING OF A CITY

Oh, I have seen the dawn above a mountain That floods the plain, Where life wells up, like water from a fountain, All sweet again.

Have seen the world awaken like a child With eyes of blue, That stretched its arms, breathed deeply then, and smiled.

That night was through, But cities have no peaks, they have but valleys, No verdant breast, From restless sleep crawl out of darkened alleys Today's unrest.

On streets stone-curbed the first grey shadows break, And lives stone-curbed, For at the dawn cities do not wake— They are disturbed.

—Douglas Malloch in The Atlantic Monthly.

It matters little whether a man be mathematically or philosophically or artistically cultivated, so he be cultivated.—Goethe.

Pale death enters with impartial step the cottages of the poor and the palaces of the rich.—Horace.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

But to the here, when his sword
Has won the battle for the free.
And in the hollow tones are heard
The thanks of millions yet to be.

—Halleck.

Some time ago and immediately after the Imperial Economic Conference had met for the dispatch of business, sceptical and hopeful commentators were in complete agreement that the delegates could not possibly finish their business in less than a month, and probably would be in session for two months. The Conference has been considering its business for about two weeks, which is a very short time in the life of conferences of any importance these days, and yet the critics are beginning to fume and chafe at the alleged delays in the Imperial Conference business and to predict that the Conference is going to be a failure, and indeed that it already is a complete failure.

As might be expected, the Liberal newspapers of England and of Canada attribute to Prime Minister Bennett all the responsibility for the alleged delay in the transaction of the business of the Conference and for what they hope will be the complete failure of the Conference. The chief newspaper critic of Canada is, of course, The Winnipeg Free Press, which, predictably from the beginning that the Conference could not be anything but a failure because its chairman and principal director was Mr. Bennett, and said only a day or two ago that the Conference had struck a dangerous snag and that its life was in danger.

We had hoped that what with the prospect of fine crops on the prairies and the opening of the season of navigation on Hudson Bay and the harbor of Churchill, free of ice and ready to welcome a fleet of grain-carrying ships, the Manitoba organ of all the elements of despair in Canada, might possibly be imbued with a new and more cheerful spirit. But we suppose nothing on earth except the failure of the Conference will stem the perpetual flow of tears from the eyes of our doleful contemporary.

What are the markets of the Empire, limited to about one-fourth of the physical area of the whole world and possibly a fourth of the population of the world, when compared with the total area of the world and all the population of the world? Ask the Liberal newspapers of both Great Britain and Canada. As the markets of all the world are unobtainable upon a free trade basis or even upon a preferential basis, surely a measure of free trade and of preferential trade within one-fourth of the world are more to be desired than no trade at all with the greater part of the world. On the one hand you have a vain dream, on the other hand you have something that is substantial and practicable.

The average man on the street these days will tell you that he has lost all confidence in the newspapers, principally because so many of the newspapers do not print the news as it is but the news as they would like it to be. This unfortunate attitude of the newspapers has been especially exemplified in the news they have printed about the alleged proceedings of the Ottawa Conference—or rather we should say in the rumors the newspapers have circulated about the difficulties confronting the Ottawa Conference and the practical impossibility of anything of value being accomplished by the Conference. That sort of thing was to be expected of the press representatives of foreign nations, which naturally fear the consequences of the success of the Conference and would send up to high heaven a whoop of joy and thanksgiving if it should be a failure; but the conduct of the Liberal newspapers of both Canada and Great Britain remind us of the old and homely saying that "It is an ill bird which fouls its own nest."

We have little sympathy with the views of the dreamers and agitators who attribute all the business and economic ills of the world to party politics and party politicians, but are forced to the conclusion that the policies of bitter partisans are responsible for the attacks being made upon the British and Canadian leaders in the Ottawa Conference. The Liberal Party in Canada is in a bad way at the present time, and the Liberal Party of Great Britain is in a worse way, chiefly because they are blind to the fact or are deliberately closing their eyes to the fact that while the principles of free trade may be sound, the practical application of the principles of world free trade under existing circumstances is absolutely impossible. There is not an important nation in the world that has not adopted the principle of protection. There is not an important nation in the world that is not raising instead of lowering its tariff walls, although admitting that high duties are strangling international trade.

The object of the Ottawa Conference was to bring about a more practical application of the principles of world free trade under existing circumstances. It was not to bring about a more practical application of the principles of world free trade under existing circumstances. It was not to bring about a more practical application of the principles of world free trade under existing circumstances.

TRIPLE MURDER CASE

Sir,—I read an article in your last Sunday's Colonist written by B. M. Cryer, of a story related to him by an Indian woman named Tessa-Mintah, relating to the triple murder of Indians in Stewards Channel, near Chemainus, a number of years ago. I personally knew all the Indians connected in this case, both those murdered and the murderer. I might here say, for a number of years I was a member of the Provincial Police Force and for some years, chief constable of the Cowichan district, which included the island. Consequently, I knew all the Indians of the district and they all knew me. At the time of the murders I was not on the police, then being magistrate of the district.

Indian Jackson was a big Indian with a big laugh, and a particular friend of mine. He lived within a hundred feet of the River Bridge at Duncan. On the day of the murder he was known that he had left Duncan to go to Kuper Island and that he never came back.

Tommy Moses was charged with the murder of the medicine man, Ce-lah-mah-Khat, and I took the preliminary hearing at Chemainus and committed him for trial.

What I am really writing about is this—Moses was never charged with the murder of Jackson because the police were unable to get evidence that Jackson had connected with, or even met Tommy Moses, or the medicine man that day, and it was only owing to Jackson starting out for Kuper Island and disappearing at the same time as the other two, that I was generally supposed that he had been killed by Tommy Moses. After Tommy Moses' conviction, he admitted to killing the medicine man, but strenuously denied that he had killed Jackson or even seen him that day.

The question that arises in my mind after reading B. M. Cryer's article is this—Is the Indian woman, Tessa-Mintah, telling the truth when she says that Tommy Moses admitted to her the killing of Jackson, or is she only telling what she believes to be the case.

If Tommy Moses really admitted to the killing of Jackson, this solves the problem of Jackson's death, which up to this time has never been unraveled.

Tessa-Mintah also tells B. M. Cryer that Moses buried the three bodies on land. This I think extremely unlikely. Why should Moses take the trouble to bury the bodies on land when the Channel, in which the murders were committed, is four miles broad and very deep water.

All he had to do was weigh the bodies and sink them, or knife them in such a manner that they would not afterwards float. Furthermore, a search and systematic search was made to try and discover the graves, or the bodies by the Provincial Police and the Indians. The bodies were never found, although a piece of one of the skulls which I remember examining closely, I being still fresh and blood-stained, was found in the medicine man's canoe, and was one of the exhibits in the preliminary hearing I previously mentioned.

"HALLS OF EXCHANGE"

Sir,—Appropos of the currency discussions now running in the letter column of your valuable paper, perhaps a brief outline of a plan now afoot may interest your readers.

"God, who giveth us all things richly to enjoy" has made this time of plenty—plenty of work, workers and discontents. The trouble seems to be in the method of collection and distribution.

Why not have "Halls of Exchange," where contributions are received from near and near, then assigned to their various departments? The contributor receives the value of his goods in cheques, which he can use for his own convenience. A few coupons of denominations under a dollar. His name is registered in a book, and credit entered for that amount.

The cheques are good for the purchase of any goods contained in the "Halls of Exchange," and the returned coupons will be entered against his account.

A service department will contain the names of those willing to give their services, on the same basis, and the applicant will be a handy man or a teacher of music.

On the same understanding any storekeeper may register his business as a branch office. This will not interfere with the ordinary use of money now used.

At the "Halls of Exchange" a certain percentage of every value received will be applied to the profit department, and objects of which to assist proper parties to establish any business on a co-operative foundation.

Enough has now been said to show its possibilities.

SUB-TROPICAL VICTORIA

Sir,—Sitting on the veranda in an atmosphere gloriously redolent of the lemon scent of the Magnolia Grandiflora, with its creamy-white chalice as large as an old-fashioned coffee cup, a short distance away a well-established fig tree is ripening some twenty pounds of its figs. As can be produced in Southern California, alongside a Japanese persimmon, a rich growth as high as the fig, about twelve feet, I am more than ever impressed with the advertising and attractive possibilities of Victoria's unique climate of which we have adequately made use.

This evergreen magnolia has been growing in front of my residence without protection for eighteen years. While slow in becoming established, owing to the nearness of large trees, it is now adding over a foot a year to its growth, now about nine feet, with leaves similar to those of the fig.

That this tree, the habitat of which is South Carolina, Florida, the Gulf States and Southern California, is able to flourish and bloom in Victoria, is the most practical evidence of the climatic conditions we enjoy but fail to make the most of in attracting those from less favored climates.

'SHOPWORN' NOW PLAYING HERE

Barbara Stanwyck Starring in Latest Paramount Production Which Opens Today

Feminists can point with pride to Sarah Y. Mason, who adapted the story of "Shopworn," the Barbara Stanwyck starring picture that opens today at the Dominion Theatre. For Miss Mason has successfully combined several careers into one interesting young lifetime. She has been an actress, a writer, a scenarist and author of original screen stories. And as if that were not enough for one woman, she is the happy mother of two children who are a whole career in themselves.

For the past five years Miss Mason has been known as one of the best adapters of screen plays in Hollywood. "The Girl Said No," "The Man in Possession" and "Peg o' My Heart" are her more recent adaptations.

In private life Miss Mason is the wife of Victor Heerman, noted screen director. The writer says that her ambition is to be a superior actress. She wants to prepare her own stories, cast them, choose the director, have all the help she can buy or steal, and have the final say on all questions regarding the entire production. If she succeeds in accomplishing this, she will have added yet another career to her already imposing list.

EMPIRE In Paramount's "RETHEATRE" served for Ladies," featuring Leslie Howard, who recently played opposite Ann Harding in "Devotion," motion picture fans will see Elizabeth Allan, one of England's most popular stage and screen personalities. This strikingly handsome and intriguing star of the English screen plays the leading feminine role opposite Howard and shares the honors of the picture with that clever actor, Miss Allan is twice a shining light in the screen firmament. She has a long list of stage and screen successes to her credit. Like most successful screen artists, her dramatic training started on the stage.

ROMANO "Union Depot," now at THEATRE the Romano Theatre, and Vitaphone production starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and featuring Joan Blondell, and ends its successful local engagement with today's performance. It is the consensus of opinion that Douglas gives his most delightful characterization as Chic, the adventurous and romantic hobo of "Union Depot."

Blondell, Joan Blondell, on occasion pathetic, and altogether charming as the stranded actress the high-stepping hero champions.

CAPITOL Charles "Chic" Sale, THEATRE renowned for his "make-up" ability, has a repertoire of more than thirty-five characters. For each he has exact mannerisms of speech and action, and he can change from one to another with lightning rapidity. In "When a Feller Needs a Friend," now at the Capitol Theatre, he portrays an old horse-car conductor, which adds still another characterization to his list.

PLAYHOUSE "Hit the Deck," Radio Pictures' lavish, all-talking technical color musical comedy, closes today at the Playhouse Theatre. A cast of fourteen players headed by Polly Walker, Broadway beauty, and Jack Oakie, sensational comedian, interpret the roles. No expense or talent was spared to make this screen version the most pretentious offering of the season. A chorus of 200 singers and dancers lend a variety to the screen version that the stage could only suggest.

COLUMBIA The Columbia Theatre is showing Tim McCoy's latest "The Riding Tornado." As usual, Tim McCoy has been supplied with a story that is packed to the bursting point with thrilling horse-bustin', stampeeding, flat fighting and a dangerous run-in with horse.

Spiritually Docile Mankind Is Savage In Everyday Life

Krishnamurti, Young Hindu Philosopher, Makes Novel Statement in Searching Message to Crowded City Temple Last Night

"Spiritually we have become as lambs; we have established preconceived ideas of what truth shall be, and having established these, we are merely following. We have established a religion, teachers, masters and ideas, and we are continually trying to imitate. We do not think for ourselves at all. We have set up spiritual standards and are merely following, without thought, with our minds and hearts completely closed.

"In the world of matter, on the other hand—in the world of action, of everyday existence, we find the exact contrary. We are not like lambs but like wild animals, fighting each other savagely, struggling against each other for trade and business, piling up possessions, trying to procure security for himself. In the world of action there is perfect confusion and disorder, while in the world of the spirit we are trying to be quiet and obedient. Spiritually man has ceased to be an individual; in action he is a ruthlessly individualistic and egotistical being. We have closed the doors on independent thought, and because of this we have become ruthlessly individualistic in the world of action."

WORLD TEACHER
This constituted the keynote of the message delivered here last night by Krishnamurti, the youthful Indian philosopher, teacher and lecturer, who spoke to a crowded house at the City Temple last night. An overwhelming interest in him and his message was shown in the fact that by 7 o'clock all seats were taken, and disappointed hundreds lingered outside the building long after he began to speak.

Slight, sensitive, shy, his face dominated by the large dark eyes, and the self-protective movement of his hands occasionally testifying to an acute sensibility of criticism of his views, Krishnamurti occupied the stage alone. No chairman preceded him to introduce him, and there were no votes of thanks. The first half of the evening was occupied with his own message, and the final part with replies to a number of questions which he had received. After his address he immediately descended from the stage, and was promptly surrounded by several of his own countrymen, many of whom were in the audience. Scores of others went forward also and shook hands with him.

ASKS FOR HEARING
"If you will listen with intelligent criticism you will see that what I say is not confusing, although you may think, if you do not give thought to it, that it is confusing, contradictory and not practical," he said with appealing and unaffected earnestness, in beginning his talk. "To discuss truly you may not be burdened with your own precon-

If the idea appeals to you, the teacher becomes your master and guide. You are imitative, and so you crystallize that which your master has said and a group of people is formed to follow the same ideas. Religion may have a moral and civilizing value in society for a group of people, but wherever there is a standard, an imitative control, there is no spirituality, for wherever you are trying to live according to the edicts of another, there is incomplete action, and therefore insincerity.

Just Roamin' Around

By TWO ROVERS

Rover dearly loves to have a good romp in the new-mown hay; and so does Rover's master. Or, rather, so did Rover's master when he was young and skittish and wild.

Now-a-days we don't indulge in romping in the new-mown hay any more, as we find we are not as agile as we were, and besides, where in heck can one find new-mown hay around here, I'd like to know?

In the good company of several friends we have searched the whole countryside, within a radius of a dozen miles, and all we could find in the shape of new-mown hay was a field or two of what had been sweet-smelling long grass, cut far too soon, or too soon to be saved from the blight of pouring rains, that soaked and soaked it and left it a very hideous blackish-brown color and quite unlike any new-mown hay we used to romp in, years and years, and years ago.

There is, back in my mind, a dim recollection of a large field, that is as fields go in the old land, where a small boy, recently returned from England from the northern provinces of India and the glorious Vale of Kashmir, placed in the new-mown hay with other youngsters, and not far from Nutter's farm on the road from Fence in Pendle to Wheatley Lane.

Over across that road was the "tuck shop" of Mrs. Pickup, where we spent the few pennies that came our way and where we shared up on our purchases with all the unselfishness that it is a pity we do not keep and exercise in after years.

HAPPY MEMORIES

I can still recall, at will, the glamorous golden yellows on that far away field; the sunny mounds of ripe and fragrant grasses; the little band of grown-up toilers, who permitted some ten or twelve children to romp around the stooks, playing "hide and seek," and in and out among the hay. I can also remember that every once in a while we kids used to visit Mrs. Pickup's little shop, and that my own particular delight was to exchange my pennies for some of those "sweeties," round and white, that had pink lettering thereon of a most affectionate and loving nature, which one little boy always gave to Sarah, the small daughter of the proprietor of the little village shop.

The sight of new-mown hay, even drenched and sun-baked new-mown hay, ever brings back the memory of that very unimportant Lancashire hamlet, where a little shaver of not quite nine was very much enamoured of a mile of not quite eight, and was not afraid to say so—at the time.

NEW-MOWN HAY

Two children once went out to play. Upon a happy summer's day; They romped amongst the new-mown hay. And little birds could hear him say:

He loved her!

And there he made a little nest Of new-mown hay and flowers pressed,

That they had gathered in their quest; And there the boy again confessed

He loved her!

Long years of separation came; The grown-up years, that love inflame.

He travelled far—in search of fame, And hoped, some day, her love to claim;

He loved her!

She grew to womanhood—and wed; Ah! Long ago; then, starward fled;

But, memory is never dead— The new-mown hay recalls he said

He loved her!

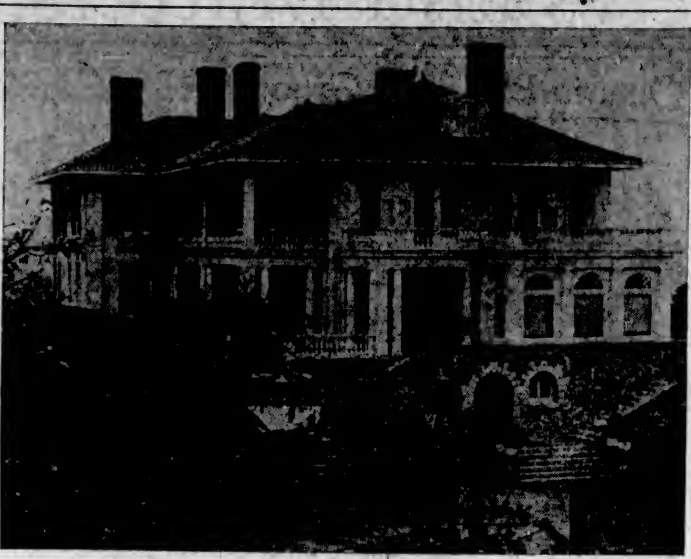

COAST LEAGUE GAMES

NOT BILLED FOR CITY

SEATTLE, Aug. 5.—Bill Klepper, president of the Seattle Indians, commented briefly tonight on a report that negotiations were under way to play three Seattle-Oakland Coast League games at Victoria, British Columbia, by saying there was "nothing to it."

"All of Seattle's home games will be played right here in the Civic Stadium," he said.

Astronomer Royal Makes Exclusive Canadian Tour

Sir Frank Dyson, of Greenwich Observatory, Who Arrived Here Yesterday for Two Weeks'
Visit, Enjoying Experiences

The favor of an exclusive Canadian visit has been accorded this country by Sir Frank Dyson, Astronomer Royal of Britain and director of the Greenwich Observatory, who arrived in Victoria yesterday in the course of a Dominion-wide tour with this city as one of his chief objectives. Whereas the rest of the twenty European and other famous astronomers who reach here this week-end will proceed south to California and thence eastward to view other noted telescopes of this continent, Sir Frank is confining his travels to the Dominion, and will spend two weeks here with the director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Mr. P. G. Molesworth, at Little Saanich Mountain before returning to the East to view the solar eclipse on August 31.

Sir Frank, who left with Dr. Plaskett last night for Hamilton to attend the interesting ceremonies connected with the unveiling of a tablet to commemorate the completion of the Pacific cable, arrived in Montreal on July 28, and while there met and had an enjoyable visit with Sir Arthur Currie before proceeding to Ottawa. There he and Lady Dyson attended a garden party at Government House, visited the Observatory, and enjoyed some further sightseeing before starting for Western Canada.

Speaking of this long cross-country trip yesterday, Sir Frank was enthusiastic in his comments not only of the scenery but of the comfort and courtesy experienced in the trains. Sir Frank was also an enjoyer of the scenery, and expressed himself as charmed with the view from the top of the hill.

While this is Sir Frank's first visit to Victoria, it is not his first to the Pacific Coast, as he was in California as long ago as 1910, and visited Mount Wilson, already famous as possessing the world's largest telescope.

On this occasion he is combining pleasure and business, for while he has the fortnight's holiday here he will lecture here and in Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg and Toronto under the National Council of Education, his address here to be on Monday, August 15.

Rev. C. M. Ward, pastor of the Pentecostal Assembly here, and J. E. Barnes, formerly of this city and superintendent of the British Columbia Pentecostal Conference, will represent this province at the coming national conference, which opens in London, Ont., on Tuesday, August 30.

The local pastor, as one of four provincial presidents, is a member of the general conference. At the present provincial gathering in Penikese, Mr. Ward was chairman of the resolutions committee. About 100 delegates, representing a score of branches, were in attendance and gratifying reports were given as to progress at all centres.

To Review Advance of Movement

"The British-Israel Forward Movement: Twenty-Five Years' Work in Victoria: Great Advance at Hand" will be the subject of E. E. Richards' address to be given under the auspices of the British-Israel Federation, in the Campbell Building, on Monday next at 8 o'clock. Mr. Richards will review the progress of the British-Israel movement in the city during the last quarter century, and will outline the plans for expansion of the work throughout the province.

PILGRIMAGE PLAY HAS NEW SETTING
Californian Theatre Is Scene of Twelve Episodes Depicting Biblical Story of Jesus

For the twelfth time the Pilgrimage Play among the Hollywood hills has opened for the season. Some-times referred to as the Overmorgue of the West, this play depicts in twelve episodes the biblical story relating to Jesus, from the birth of the babe in the manger, to the Resurrection and the Ascension. It does not, however, state the Christian Science Monitor, portray the Crucifixion, as does the Overmorgue production. This incident is described by a centurion.

The words spoken in the part of Christ or Jesus are in exact accord with the King James version of the Bible. The words and episodes are taken from all four gospels without expressing any opinions regarding the merit of any one translation, but where the report is not entirely harmonious, preference has been given to the most consistent record.

The little wooden theatre that was burned in 1930 has been replaced by a new structure, erected at a cost of $350,000. Outside the theatre shrubs and rare trees indigenous to Palestine have been transplanted, the whole forming a beautiful picture of the land of the Bible.

The sombre, brown hills surround the theatre at the gateway of the Cabuena Pass.

W. N. Weston Begins New Course on Bible Study—Preaches at Both Sunday Services

W. N. Weston, L.L.M., educator, author and metaphysician, will continue his inspirational talks and lectures at Unity Centre, 635 Fort Street. On Sunday morning the subject will be "Spiritual Courage," and in the evening at 7:30 on "A Modern Jesus Christ."

During the week the lectures will be on the following subjects: Monday, 8 p.m., "The Book of Books"; Tuesday, 3 p.m., "The Magic Disclaimers"; Wednesday, 8 p.m., "Revelation Within, Dominion Without"; Thursday, 3 p.m., "What About Immortality?"; Friday, 8 p.m., "Scripture Searching." The Monday and Friday evening lectures are the first two of a course on "How to Study the Bible."

King's Letter to Scottish Church Wrongly Drafted
One of the English religious weeklies stated in its report of the meetings of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland that were held in Edinburgh in May, that in the King's letter read at the opening of the assembly, His Majesty expressed the resolve "to uphold the rights and privileges of the Church of Scotland as by law established." The report makes a correction by saying that someone at the Court of St. James had blundered, and in drafting the letter had fallen back on an old form which had been abandoned at the union of 1707.

Church Schools Aid West Coast Indians
The Alberni residential school, which is under the care of Rev. E. and Mrs. Pitts, gives splendid training for the boys, not only in the carpenter shop, but also on the farm, from the clearing of the land to the scientific management of a dairy and a herd of cattle. The Alberni Indian boys have won many ribbons at the fairs. Quite as effective is the training given to the native girls in housekeeping.

MORAL BENEFITS
The visitor was loud in his praise of the moral and material benefits bestowed by these schools and other similar to them, upon the Indian people. He referred, as a further example, to the intelligence and fine personal appearance of the congregation which he addressed at Clo-ose, as having been due to the fact that for years the youth of this tribe have been educated at the Coolesquas residential school near Sardis, in the Fraser Valley.

Besides the faithful service given by the ministers and their wives, Dr. Osterhout mentioned the women teachers of the Indian schools on the reserves, praising their pluck and efficiency. At Ucluelet, with a population of about 180 Indians, Miss Ryckman is the missionary-teacher, who instructs the children, conducts four services weekly and is the church and state factotum for the community. This is one of the few mission fields in Canada where a woman missionary works with an Indian tribe.

Miss Ryckman is, however, happy and successful, as is Miss Macgo, the teacher of the day school at Clo-ose, who frequently hikes off to her home at Banfield, thirty miles away, over an unimproved forest trail, crossing a river at the half-way point in a cable basket propelled alone by the occasional traveler.

MAKE FINE FURNITURE
Handsome furniture is being turned out by the Indian boys in the manual department of this school, under the direction of Rev. J. Jones, the principal. To this accomplishment is to be added the science of boat building, much to the delight of these ancient seamen of the Pacific. Dr. Osterhout referred to the surprisingly valuable furniture which he found in the homes of the Clo-ose natives, which had been salvaged from the all too frequent wrecks of this inhospitable coast. Here may be found, in unpeeled Indian shacks, rich mahogany, walnut, oak or gum furniture fit for a mansion.

Liberal Catholic Church Youngest Religious Group

ALTHOUGH having branches in more than forty countries, the Liberal Catholic Church is one of the least known of the religious bodies. It was organized in London, England, in 1916, and a congregation was started in Victoria in 1925. This church aims to be both Liberal and Catholic, to receive all modern scientific knowledge and at the same time to worship in the spirit of the history of the church. A review of this striking movement will be given in tomorrow's issue.

Rev. G. F. Cox In St. Paul's Pulpit Again

Rev. G. F. Cox having returned from holidays, takes up duties again on Sunday at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Victoria West. In the morning he will commence a series of studies in the epistle of the Ephesians.

The subject is "The Christian's Prayer for Knowledge and Power." At the evening service Mr. Cox will speak on "Modern Religious Developments and Their Message."

Sunday schools are held as follows: St. Paul's, 9:45 o'clock; Craig (Lower), 10 o'clock; Esquimalt Road (Old High School), 10:30 o'clock. Y.P.S.C.E. meets Monday at 8 o'clock. Prayer meeting, Thursday at 8 p.m.

The lesson-lesson will also include the following passage from page 97 of "Science and Health, With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "He uttered his voice, the earth melted. Scripture indicates that all matter will disappear before the supremacy of Spirit."

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

Express Cars Haul Great Variety of Valuable Traffic

From Prize Poultry to Expensive Furs, Silk and Gold Bullion, Fast Trains Still Carry Wealth of Nation

A treasure trove filled with gold and silver. A livestock show on wheels, echoing to the stamping of racetracks or the plaintive cheeping of day-old chicks, or occasionally, the snarling of caged maned cats. Sometimes a cold storage compartment for priceless Arctic furs, sometimes fragrant with hot-house flowers being rushed to far-off cities. A place where those traditional enemies, the fox and the chicken, are forced to dwell in peace and harmony together. In short, a railway express car. If one doesn't think an express car has romance, or if one wants to learn something of the diversification of British Columbia's produce, he should listen to P. A. Dunne, superintendent of the Pacific division of the Canadian Pacific Express Company.

Express messengers who ride the trains between Vancouver and Winnipeg, it seems, are the kind of fellows who are ready to deal with any situation, no matter what comes next. They may leave Vancouver, for example, with a few thousand squirming day-old chicks; at Calgary maybe they'll be required to find room for some blue-blooded livestock, perchance a prize ear of corn from the Prince of Wales ranch at High River en route to some Eastern exhibition. At Medicine Hat, it probably will be a few hundred boxes of cut flowers from that city's famous nine-acre greenhouse.

The diversified production of British Columbia and Alberta which forms the Pacific division of a wide range of traffic. A shipment of silver bullion from a British Columbia smelter may have for its traveling companions a shipment of prize livestock from Alberta. Similarly a shipment of prize British Columbia poultry may meet up with a consignment of live foxes from Alberta.

Importance of express service to British Columbia's poultry industry is stressed by Mr. Dunne. "British Columbia poultry has won wide distinction and is being shipped far and wide to Germany, the United States, Italy, Phil. Islands, Cuba, Mexico and India," he said. "A recent shipment of prize birds was made by our services to Japan. The baby chicks industry, depending entirely on express for handling, is an especially notable seasonal movement; literally hundreds of thousands of day-old chicks are carried each spring."

"The fur trade of Northern British Columbia and Alberta," Mr. Dunne continued, "supplies a substantial traffic, while the Medicine Hat greenhouses, with nine acres under glass and the second largest in Canada, produce a large volume of traffic in cut flowers and vegetables. In the spring season tulips and daffodils are shipped in great quantities from Vancouver and Victoria to prairie points. Hundreds of boxes of British Columbia fish move east from Vancouver and

GOLD BULLION, TOO
Trans-Pacific express traffic has gained considerably of late years and now silk moves in carloads via express to Eastern markets. Incidentally, it's an ill wind, indeed, that blows nobody good, and when Japan, or any other nation, decides to ship gold to the United States to balance international exchange, express companies find business.

"During the past few years millions of dollars in gold have been handled by our service from Japan to the United States, transfers being made from the Express liners here to the United States railways for the San Francisco subtreasury," Mr. Dunne said.

Other interesting express shipments are racehorses moving from tracks to racetracks around the circuit and circus and theatrical animals, some of them embarrassingly blubbery.

In this day when express agencies are dispatching British Columbia products to all corners of the earth, Mr. Dunne continued, it is interesting to learn that in 1887 when the old Dominion Express reached Vancouver the population was not more than a thousand persons, and the company's first month's business in Vancouver totaled $4,120. During these last years, however, pioneer officers and agents of what is now the Canadian Express Company, devoted much time to finding customers and markets for eggs, butter, fish, fruit and other perishable products handled by express. It may not be generally known that the British Columbia fruit industry to a large extent was developed in the beginning by the efforts of the express service in finding markets.

TRYING FOR NEW RECORD
Hon. Mrs. Victor Bruce Takes Off on Endurance Flight

HAMBLETON, Ont., Aug. 5 (AP).—Mrs. Victor Bruce, who made a fast start on Monday in an attempt to set a new endurance flight record, took off again this afternoon, she and two other pilots are using an amphibian plane equipped with a kitchen, dining-room and shower bath, which Mrs. Bruce calls her "flying bungalow." On Monday they were forced down by trouble in the electrical circuit.

Five planes will participate in this attempt. Two will fly in formation on either side of Mrs. Bruce's plane in the morning, and two others will fly with her during the night. Mrs. Bruce calls them "flying butlers," and described the function as delivering food, food, newspapers and mail.

NOT CRAZY SCHEME
"This is not a crazy scheme for notoriety," she said just before the take-off, "but a definite move toward making air travel across the Atlantic safe, for we are especially concerned with the problem of refueling in the air, which is the solution of ocean air traveling."

Before the take-off it was decided that Mr. Bruce would not participate in the flight, as he had originally intended to do. His place was taken by Flight Lieut. W. R. McCleary, who has been flying since 1916, and probably has done more night flying than any man in England. Flying Officer J. O. W. Pugh went along as co-pilot. Mr. Bruce will fly the refueling machines.

Mrs. Bruce announced last Monday, before she made the first start, that she would try to break the endurance record of 553 hours 41 minutes established by the Hunter brothers in the United States.

BETTER PRICE PAID FOR FISH
Sockeye Salmon Run Improves—Pack Totals 56,439 Cases of All Varieties

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 5 (CP).—An improved run of sockeye salmon is expected in the Fraser River toward the end of the month and during September.

Cannery men have raised the price to 40 cents a fish to the fisherman and are paying 45 cents for fish delivered at the cannery wharves.

This price is higher than last year. While cannery experts are optimistic that the export trade will show improvement.

Up to July 30, 28,405 cases of sockeye were packed at the four Fraser River canneries. Of this pack 8,865 cases were of fish actually caught in the river. The total pack of all varieties is 56,439 cases, compared with 25,755 cases last year.

MATCH VIOLIN HELPS PAY
Bruno Celler and Karl Hartmann, unemployed German youths, are starting on a tour to South Africa and return with a violin made out of 2,000 matches. They are giving concerts on the instrument, and are living on the proceeds. The violin is said to have as good a tone as many expensive instruments.

WILL SAIL ONCE MORE

Old Ships to Traverse Romantic Seas With Writers and Students

OAKLAND, Aug. 5.—Decks agleam and sails newly patched, two square-rigged ships of the Alaska Packers' fleet, for years "buried" here in the mud-flat "graveyard" of the Pacific, today prepared to sail once again through the Golden Gate and follow the path of those who once blazed a glorious chapter in American history.

They were the Star of Alaska and the Star of England. Within a month they plan to sail through the maze of their sister ships' masts, huddled together as if to break the loneliness, and out into the Pacific.

BEING REBUILT
The Star of Alaska and the Star of England are being refitted for a new life—strange ones, no doubt—at sea. The Star of Alaska has been sold to a group of students from Spruce Pine, N.C., who plan to conduct a "floating university" on a round-the-world cruise. They plan to sail from San Francisco to the South Sea and Australia as their first stops.

The Star of England's new owner, Edward E. Grieve, of Los Angeles, will take the square-rigger to the South Sea to "get away from tickler tape and forget the depression."

With Grieve will be a party of writers and scientists. They plan to leave late this month.

A year ago one of the two old star clippers, the Star of Alaska, its white canvas billowing, cleared the Golden Gate and took part in the annual salmon season. It returned to its resting place here after a successful trip.

WENT TO SEA
Aged mariners recall the days when the entire fleet of twenty-five clippers made the annual run. Then it was that skippers bet the crew and the crew bet the owner on the outcome of the race to Puget Sound. Two years ago the Star of England and the Star of Alaska staged their last race. Last year the Star of Alaska sailed alone.

For the first time, steam vessels were used exclusively this year by the packers, the sailing ships definitely abandoned.

Of the original twenty-five in the fleet, only nine remain. The others have been sold.

YACHT RACES IN OLYMPIAD ARE STARTED
Colin Ratsey, of Great Britain, Finishes First in Monotype Class

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Canadian yachtsmen made their first bids for Olympic honors at the San Pedro course today, and although they failed to win a victory they were by no means out of the running.

In a close battle with Owen Churchill, of Los Angeles, skipper of the United States Angella, Ron Maitland, of Vancouver, skipper of the Santa Maria, lost by seven minutes over a nineteen-mile course in the eight-metre class. Maitland guided the Santa Maria into victory position, but the Angella was too fast.

Three other Canadian crews tested strength on the southern waters.

Oilbert Gray, of New Orleans, skipper of the Jupiter, vanquished a field of seven starters in the star boat class, and was the outstanding performer of the day. His time was 2 hrs. 38 min. 42 sec., the distance being twice around a six-mile triangular course.

CANADIAN LOSER
Piloting the sloop Angella, Owen Churchill, of Los Angeles, defeated the other eight metre entrant, the Santa Maria, skippered by Ronald Maitland, of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, for Canada, in 2 hrs. 1 min. 9 sec. Maitland trailed by seven minutes.

B. Toreholm vanquished the United States skippers to take first for Sweden in the six-metre sloop class in 2:12:02. Ten Conant, of Santa Monica, sailed the Caprice to second in 2:15:17. The Canadian sloop Ockla, sailed by Harold Jones, Vancouver, finished third in 2:17:01.

BRITISH VICTORY
Colin Ratsey, Great Britain, who took the opening race this morning in the monotype group, was second in the star boat competition, finishing five minutes astern of Gray. Third, and six minutes later, was the Swedish Star, sailed by Gunnar Astner, Sweden.

The South African sloop, All Star, skippered by Cecil Goodridge, ran afoul of the Canadian boat Windsor, in the monotype group, was second and did not finish. The Windsor was damaged, but came in fifth in 3:10:45. Fourth place was taken by Bob Maas, of Holland, in 3 hrs. 36 sec.

OTHER RESULTS
The seventh star boat, Tramon-tane, sailed by Jean Herbolot, of France, also failed to finish. Ratsey won the monotype race in 1:08:20.

Other finishers, in order, were: Bob Maas, Holland, 1:09:50; William Lyon, Newport, California, 1:10:47; S. Trevisani, Italy, 1:16:01; S. Canino, Spain, 1:36:25; J. Le Brun, France, 1:38:53; Reginald Dixon, Toronto, Canada, 1:37:15; H. Riedl, Austria, 1:37:56; E. Behr, Germany, 1:38:48; C. Goodridge, South Africa, 1:39:07.

A party, numbering thirteen, under the auspices of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, paid a short visit to Victoria yesterday. They left again during the day.
